Six errors [illegible] as many innings spoiled the perfect record of victories for the United Brethren softball team of the No 2 church league as Oakland defeated the league leaders 5 to 4 in an abbreviated contest at the Steam Shovel field.

The U. B. defeat leaves the Silk Mill team of the Industrial league as the only aggregation in the four city circuits with an unblemished record. The U B team was the only church nine to enjoy that distinction before last night's setback. Oakland went into a tie for first place by virtue of the victory.

Rain Plagues Teams

Only one other game escaped postponement last night as rain started its weekly damaging of the city softball program. Epworth Bishops climbed back into a tie for third and fourth places by defeating Wesley M E at Lincoln park 6 to 4. Forest Lawn deadlocked with the Bishops had rain interrupt its game with St Mary at President field and Central Christian and Salem were unable to play at Garfield.

Forest Lawn held a 5 to 0 lead over St Mary No 2 team with one man retired in the first half of the fifth inning. If two more Forest Lawn batters had been retired before the rain broke loose the game would have counted in the league standing.

Oakland scored two runs in the opening frame on three misplays and no hits and came back in the next inning to tally three runs on two hits two misplays and a walk. Ward and G Buckley were credited with two-base hits.

The U B team left seven men stranded on bases in six innings while misplays by Chuck Noble Bob Everly and Dick Tuttle contributed heavily to the Oakland scoring. Noble had three costly errors chalked against him.

Three runs in the first frame started the Bishops on their way to a win in a five inning game. The Methodists had sent one batsman to the plate in the sixth when rain stopped the game. Fred Walters first man at bat for the losers connected for a home run. Three Wesley runs were scored in the fifth on three hits.

The Bishops gained what proved to be the winning runs in their half of the fifth when Atkinson singled Cram walked and Mautz brought the two in with a double.

A Pictorial History of the Heavyweights

XIX SHARKEY VS. SCHMELING—1932

THE heavyweight reign of Max Schmeling who had sat his way into the championship in June 1930 by winning on a foul from Jack Sharkey and subsequently being elected champion by the New York commission was a regime of unrest and uncertainty.

The Black Uhlan had been dethroned and suspended by the New York body in 1931 for failing to give Sharkey a return match for June of that year but had stopped Young Stribling in Cleveland that summer in a battle that was generally recognized as a title defense.

On June 21 1932 in the Long Island bowl the beetle-browed German's tenure ended—almost as unsatisfactorily as it had begun—when he lost a disputed decision to Sharkey in 15 rather tame rounds.

The loquacious Lithuanian became the accepted champion when Referee Gunboat Smith voted in his favor to break a deadlock of the judges. It was a close battle all the way.

The show drew $[illegible] gross of which Schmeling received $182 750 and Sharkey $13 000.

"Believe-It-Or-Not" Finish Ends Rough Mat Show

Three Men Knocked Cold in Explosion at Finish of Grudge Fight; Vantres is Defeated.

BY CHUCK DENSMORE

A Believe It or Not finish ended one of the wildest wrestling programs seen in Marion for some time last night at the Steam Shovel gymnasium.

Three men one referee and both of the competitors were knocked cold as the Paul Bozzell Jack McDermott match ended in a draw or no contest—whichever one prefers to call it. Such an ending is unknown to the older Marion wrestling fans and one which is rarely seen anywhere. The largest crowd to witness a mat program in several weeks was awed at the finale.

Happened Thusly

It happened like this. Bozzell the tough Oklahoman and McDermott a Washington woodchopper who doesn't know his own strength had each gained a fall. Two referees Ham Hamilton and Tom Temple were called upon to handle the grudge scrap.

Bozzell had objected to interference of his rough tactics threatening twice to punch an official. With only three minutes of the third fall gone Bozzell kayoed Hamilton with a haymaker to the side of the jaw.

Stepping over Hamilton's body he tossed McDermott from the ring. The Spokane lumberjack came back through the ropes with a powerful lunge that sent Bozzell sprawling. He lighted head first on Hamilton's head and his heels caught Bozzell under the chin. With three men in a horizontal position Temple the only man on his feet in the ring counted 10 and raised his hands in gesture of perplexity as to whom had won.

Comes Out Fighting

Hamilton was revived first. He came to his senses fighting to make the crowd scatter before he realized where he was and what had happened. The two matmen were revived five minutes later in the dressing room McDermott being the last to leave slumberland.

Previous so called rough matches were child's play beside last night's explosion. Bozzell took the first fall with a crab hold in nine minutes. He maltreated McDermott with punches and gougings but the lumberjack came back with terrific blows and shoulder butts.

McDermott provided a dynamite ending to the second fall in 45 seconds by powerful shoulder butts and knee lifts. The fall was one of the swiftest seen in a Marion ring for several years. The match was a [illegible] at [illegible].

Experience triumphed over youthful speed and self assurance when Cowboy Stan Rogers of Tucson Ariz took two out of three falls from Al Vantres of Boston. Vantres received full payment for his punches and undignified crotch holds when Rogers severely damaged the New Englander with a powerful rolling leg split.

Yells for Mercy

Vantres required 15 minutes rest to come back for the third fall. Rogers ended the match after three minutes of the third fall and Vantres yelled for mercy. Vantres started full of confidence and meanness to take the first fall in 13 minutes with a body press after a series of blows.

Unsatisfied with pinning Rogers, he had to get in a few kicks after being awarded the fall. Rogers however evened that count when he took the second fall in 18 minutes. He had things easy in the last five minutes of the fall weakening Vantres with a figure-4 scissors.

Tom Galbos wrestling coach at Western Reserve university and well known mat man received a referee's decision over Jack Hagen the Shreveport La match specialist after 13 minutes of work. Galbos looked good in the few minutes he could close in on Hagen without getting the match in the back or the throttle hold on his neck.

PYTLAK'S ABSENCE FAILS TO DISCOURAGE INDIAN VICTORY DRIVE

Boston Defeated, 11 to 2, Braves Rout Reds Twice, Blanton Out

BY HUGH S FULLERTON JR
Associated Press Sports Writer

The season that pennant contenders fear and few manage to avoid seems to be coming on major league baseball. That's the time when some important player gets sick or is hurt and the managers' carefully laid plans have to be rearranged.

The latest victims of the scourge are the Pittsburgh Pirates and Cleveland Indians both of whom hope to finish at or near the top.

Pytlak Is Out

Cleveland's first string catcher Little Frankie Pytlak finally gave up his effort to recover from an illness while wandering around with the club and left for his home in Buffalo. The Tribe did not miss him much when Bill Brenzel substituted ably and made two hits in an 11 to 2 triumph over the Red Sox.

The Pirates got a worse blow just after they had slugged the Phillies into submission 12 to 5 without their leading clouter Arky Vaughan who is nursing a charley horse. Darrell (Cy) Blanton brilliant rookie pitcher who has won nine games against five losses was stricken with acute appendicitis and hurried to a hospital for an operation.

The Indians after being delayed a half hour by the rain which wiped out three other American League games piled up 17 blows including home runs by Earl Averill and Bruce Campbell to trounce Boston for the fourth straight time and move into a tie with Detroit for third place in the American League.

Pittsburgh gathered in 22 blows off three Philly pitchers and increased its margin over the third place St Louis club to a game and one half as the Cardinals were buried under a 14 to 3 score by the league leading Giants. For the Phils Johnny Moore belted his twelfth home run of the year to tie Mel Ott of New York for the league lead.

Reds Beaten Twice

The Giants got going against Paul Dean for three runs in the second inning belted him to cover in the fourth when the Cards blew up for three errors and four more runs counted and finished against Ray Harrell for a total of 19 hits.

The cellar dwelling Braves smote the Reds twice in the course of the Bunker Hill Day doubleheader 5 to 3 and 5 to 1 and left the losers only a few points ahead of Philadelphia.

Two homers by Chuck Klein each with a man aboard gave the Cubs their winning margin in a 5 to 3 triumph over Brooklyn.

BRADDOCK SCRAP MAY COME IN FALL

NEW YORK June 17—It looks like Braddock vs Schmeling in September.

Jimmy Johnston peppery little matchmaker for Madison Square Garden said last night he had been informed Max Schmeling former heavyweight champion was ready to come to this country from Germany if assured a title go and that he Johnston had decided to stage the fight in the Long Island Bowl in late September.

Although he has not received the final sanction of Jimmy Braddock and his manager Joe Gould Johnston said they had told him they would agree to a meeting with either Schmeling Lasky or the dethroned Max Baer.

California Crew Seeks To Close in on Record

Golden Bears Favored To Win Third Straight Victory on Hudson Today

By The Associated Press

POUGHKEEPSIE N Y June 18—The annual job of beating California was turned over today to the broadbacked oarsmen of Navy Washington Pennsylvania Cornell Syracuse and Columbia as the little city of Poughkeepsie revived again in its annual day of crowds and excitement the 37th intercollegiate regatta.

Each year it gets tougher this problem of turning back the brawny Golden Bears Ky Ebright brings east for the heart-breaking four mile struggle in the twilight down the bolstering Hudson.

Twice in a row the massive Bears have sailed to victory looking back on a struggling fleet. This year's crew if anything looks better than the varsity eight that nailed its farwest rival Washington by three full lengths at the 1934 finish with Navy closest of the Eastern fleet. Dickey Burnley the big stroke who paced that California boatload wasn't even brought East this year his place won by a mighty 185-pound sophomore Gene Berenkamp. Four of last year's veterans are in the boat.

Al Ulbrickson's Huskies from Washington and Buck Walsh's swift smooth stroking Midshipmen from the naval academy at Annapolis are figured the chief competition again as California sought to pull a notch closer to the four straight record Cornell's great eights scored in the varsity duels from 1909 through 1912.

The Huskies have a crack eight in the two mile freshman race opening the day's festivities at 4 p m and the sophomores who went sour after the California victory for the three mile junior varsity tussle at 5 p m an hour before the varsities pull from the starting boats. Ulbrickson wants to sweep the river this time.

California was the favorite at 6 to 5 with Washington and Navy coupled at 2 to 1 Cornell Pennsylvania and Syracuse at 3 to 1 and Columbia the long shot at 15 to 1.

Navy an extremely smooth eight beaten only in a whisper by Pennsylvania in the Eastern sprint season boasts an exceptional pace setter in massive Joe Hood while Penn's Lloyd Saxton in the opinion of his mentor Rusty Callow is the best stroke he ever coached. Syracuse's stroke Bit Russell (Swede) Swanson is so good he forced the Orange captain Bart O'Hearn out of the first boat and into the No 4 seat of the Japanese John York a [illegible] great heart in the Washington shell and Fred [illegible] in the C[illegible] driver's seat is probably the best oarsman in the heaviest boatload on the river. The overnight weather prospect was for showers during the day.

SCRAP STIRS TOLEDO TO DEFEAT COLUMBUS

Rally After Manager is Escorted from Park Brings Hens 10 9 Win

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO June 18 — The trials and tribulations attendant to trying to improve the standing of his seventh place Toledo Mud Hens apparently has worked Manager Fred Nugget Haney up to a battling pitch.

Haney who protested Columbus pair of victories in Sunday's doubleheader yesterday complained so stoutly over a decision by Umpire Chester Swanson that he was ordered from the field. So reluctant was Haney to obey that police had to escort him to visitors quarters in the Columbus park.

Haney's example helped stir the Mud Hens into action for they overcame a 9 to 3 Red Bird lead with rallies in the seventh and eighth inning to win 10 to 9. Mike Powers led Toledo's 15 hit assault with four singles and Haney was around long enough to drive in two runs with a long double.

Kansas City's hustling Blues elbowed back into the thick of the struggle for the first place by winning a doubleheader from Milwaukee 14 to 4 and 5 to 3.

The victories put the Blues in a tie with St Paul for third place just one point behind Minneapolis and only two games back of the league leading Indianapolis Indians. The Indians and Louisville were kept idle by rain.

A fine job of relief pitching by Ross Ryan helped Minneapolis to a 7 to 6 victory over St Paul. Ryan replaced Bill Perrin after the Saints had scored all their runs and pitched hitless ball for five innings.

Sketches From Career of New World Champ

(This is the first of four articles on the up down and up again career of Jimmy Braddock new heavyweight champion of the world)

BY EDWARD J NEIL
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK June 18 — What kind of fellow really is this James J Braddock messenger boy printer's devil longshoreman prize fighter now heavyweight champion of the world?

Take a cross section of all the big even tempered slow spoken honest faithful family men you know that's one picture of the 29 year old Irishman who dazed the fistic world by whipping Max Baer in Madison Square Garden's Bowl on Long Island.

Think of someone you know someone with a big wide open face clear eyes not particularly smart but a bulldog in his devotion to his wife and three youngsters always having a tough time making a go of it but never quitting and too proud to ask favors he can't repay. That's another picture of him.

Gives His Best

You can almost tell all these things just from looking at him in a prize ring. He has fought with broken hands broken ribs even a broken collar bone once with deeply cut eyes actually weak from lack of nourishing food. Yet he never has failed to fight to the limit of his strength and ability which hasn't been much at times plodding slowly along pumping with his left hand belting with a real good right taking any amount of punishment without flinching.

He's the faithful copy of what politicians like to regard as the finest type of American citizen unassuming uncomplaining. His favorite drink is lager beer. He prefers steak to corn beef and cabbage but he's eaten hash and liked it most of his life.

Once Had Money

My favorite picture of him outside of a prize ring came in the lush days of 1929 when everyone had money and Madison Square Garden 600 millionaires headed by Bill Carey were trying to spend as much as possible of it by promoting a monster field day for the sporting people in conjunction with Jack Sharkey's heavyweight tussle with Bill Stribling in Miami.

Braddock lean and quiet weighing only 1[illegible]0 pounds was down there with his manager Little But Loud Joe Gould. They had lots of money then. Braddock some $80 000 in stocks and interests in taxi companies in New Jersey. Braddock was about to fight Tommy Loughran for the light heavyweight championship of the world. He was one of pugilism's big shots.

Gould and I had a date to play golf one morning. Braddock came along to watch. There was only one caddy available. Jimmy never hesitated.

Carries Golf Sticks

I'll lug your sticks he said.

With never a thought that there was anything unusual in the picture the prize fighter ploughed the 18 holes behind the white sweating around in the underbrush looking for lost balls toting the heavy bag. He grinned but never said a word until Gould at the 19th hole [illegible] settled for his losses.

If Joe don't give up golf I'll have to learn to fight twice a night he suggested.

The 10-year friendship of the fighter and manager nearly ended right there.

1934 Champs Defeated as Intermediate League Gets Under Way.

Last year's champions of the Intermediate softball league the Children's Home nine lost its opening game in the circuit last night as the summer campaign for the junior teams got under way.

Wesley M E turned the trick on the 1934 champions at Commercial field 8 to [illegible]. Emanuel Lutherans defeated the Lee Street team 8 to 6 in five and a half innings at the Silk Mill diamond. Calvary won its opener from First Reformed at the Children's home 10 to 6 and the Forest Lawn Trinity Baptist game ended in a 10 10 deadlock as rain stopped the game in the sixth inning.

The Children's home rally in the seventh fell one run short. Wesley tallied five runs in the third inning to take the lead. Thibaut and Fletcher kept Lee Street hits scattered to win for the Lutherans. Mullett of the winners and J Conkle of the Lee Street team hit home runs.

Six runs in the fourth gave Calvary its victory over the First Reformed team. Three base hits were credited to Decker of the losers and Hess of the Calvary nine.

Freddie Miller world's featherweight champion of Cincinnati has established a European record for fights during the eight months he has been abroad. He has taken part in 36 fights won 11 by knockouts 2 by decisions and lost one.

★ Holland Announces A
Year-Round Furnace
Works on Amazing New Air-Conditioning Principle

MORE EFFICIENT IN WINTER
Banishes stale, stagnant air . . . Assures even room temperatures . . . Ends cold floors, drafty corners, "register hugging" . . . Heats, filters, and circulates properly humidified air to every nook and corner of the house. Uses any type of fuel, effects tremendous savings, as furnace operates on 150 to 200 degrees instead of usual 400 to 600 degrees.

VENTILATES IN SUMMER
The same air-conditioning principle working in summer thoroughly ventilates each room . . . By completely changing the air every ten minutes. Is more effective than operating an electric fan in each room. And it's the healthiest possible summer comfort. Usually helpful as an aid for hay fever, asthma.

COURT NEWS

Sues for $350

A collision of automobiles at the intersection of the Mt. Gilead road (route 95) and the Columbus-Sandusky road (route 23) five miles east of Marion Oct. 7, 1933, has come into common pleas court for the second time with the filing of a suit by Mildred Ruffing of Norwalk against Ansel W. Honesty of Zanesville.

Miss Ruffing states her brother, Walter, who was injured fatally in the collision, was driving her automobile at the time and that the crash "substantially destroyed" the car at a loss of $350. She seeks judgment against Honesty, driver of the other car, for that amount.

In the first suit growing out of the accident, Jerome E. Ruffing, administrator of Walter Ruffing's estate, obtained a $1,750 judgment against Honesty for Walter Ruffing's death.

The law firm of Young & Young of Norwalk represents Miss Ruffing in the second suit.

Suit Dismissed

D. C. O'Connell of Marion has dismissed his common pleas action against Mrs. Anna Bess McCormick of Columbus, executrix of the will of the late John O'Connell, and others, seeking to set aside John O'Connell's will. Milo L. Myers of Marysville represents D. C. O'Connel and the law firm of Clark & Arter was counsel for the executrix.

Action Dismissed

Foreclosure suit of the People's Building, Savings & Loan Co. against Miss Marie Ruehrmund and others has been dismissed from common pleas court at the costs of the company, which was represented in the action by the law firm of Donithen & Michel.

Divorce Actions

Petitions filed—Mrs. Ethel Randall of Waldo against Clyde Randall; wilful absence; Donithen & Michel counsel for Mrs. Randall. Mrs. L. Edna Reilly of Summit street against George D. Reilly; grounds, neglect and cruelty; Carhart, Warner & Carhart counsel for Mrs. Reilly.

[illegible] officials [illegible] 100 to 35 [illegible] general and to each category [illegible] reserved [illegible] this means Germany will be allowed [illegible] of the French and [illegible] which are [illegible] the British

To Shift Tonnage

[illegible] the German [illegible] to take [illegible] 35 per cent of her tonnage [illegible] one category to another [illegible] would be strictly maintained in regard to the entire tonnage effective fleets of the two nations

The announcement followed the first full meeting of the delegations in several days It was attended by Sir Samuel Hoare foreign secretary and Sir Bolton Eyres-Monsell first lord of the admiralty

The announcement of the agreement confirmed information that Great Britain and Germany would be bound regardless of the attitude of other powers

Get Short Note from Rome

An Italian note received was described as short and non-committal and similar to those received from the United States and Japan who raised no objection to the treaty

It stated that constant consultation has been carried on with the French government which is continuing and that the French government has neither approved nor rejected the agreement

Family Reunions

As in past years The Star is anxious to publish accounts of family reunions in Marion and nearby counties Written accounts of such gatherings should be mailed or brought to The Star office immediately after they are held

It will be impossible to publish long accounts of reunions due to the large number held each year in this territory Reunion reports should include the name of the family time and place of the reunion list of officers elected and the next meeting place

The Stars Say--

For Wednesday June 19

ACCORDING TO the planetary configurations said to intervene on the affairs of this day a sudden force of a devastating and disruptive nature may be expected This influence may carry one abruptly into new environs associations and interests in which the support of friends especially women may assist in overcoming difficulties

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a very interesting year in which commotion and sudden upheaval may find its compensations in the friendly aid of women Tact and diplomacy are necessary to such happy denouements but be very discreet.

A child born on this day may be talented independent restless and unsettled but will win success eventually through influential friends

ETHIOPIA: WAR THREAT LOOMS for BLACK EMPIRE

9. PRINCE MAKONNEN—FAVORITE SON

Ethiopia's throne always has gone to the strongest claimant It is only in recent years that Emperor Haile Selassie I has firmly established himself Crown Prince Asfou Wossen does not seem to stand so well with his royal father He has been more or less exiled to the mountains after a very ordinary education and the emperor heaps his favor and his affection on his second son 14 year old Prince Makonnen The young prince has three tutors a native and two Frenchmen The youth is being given a modern education as may be gathered from the picture showing how he spends recreational hours Apparently he is being groomed for the throne (One of a series of 15 pictures)

Turn Back the Clock

The national recovery act is history. It has been replaced with a skeleton [illegible] act. A new administrator will replace Donald R Richberg as head of the recovery administration. Two-thirds of the 4,500 job holders in NRA are going to be turned out. For practical purposes the national recovery program begun two years ago has passed out of existence.

In a statement to the country when he signed the original act President Roosevelt described what he believed it would do. Parts of that statement make interesting reading now. In one place he said: "This task is in two stages—first to get many hundreds of thousands of the unemployed back on the payroll by snowfall and second to plan for a better future for the longer pull. While we shall not neglect the second the first stage is an emergency job. It has the right of way."

Explaining the theory behind the legislation Mr Roosevelt said: "The challenge of this law is whether we can sink selfish interest and present a solid front against a common peril. It is a challenge to industry which has long insisted that given the right to act in unison it could do much for the general good which has hitherto been unlawful. From today it has that right."

The President declared the act was a challenge to labor, his administration and the whole people as well as a challenge to industry. He said: "There is no power in America that can force against the public will such action as we require. But there is no group in America that can withstand the force of an aroused public opinion. This great cooperation can succeed only if those who bravely go forward to restore jobs have aggressive public support and those who lag are made to feel the full weight of public disapproval."

In concluding his statement President Roosevelt said: "It is the most important attempt of this kind in history. As in the great crisis of the World war it puts a whole people to the simple but vital test—Must we go on in many groping, disorganized separate units to defeat or shall we move as one great team to victory?"

These quotations which convey the tone of President Roosevelt's statement two years ago are a reminder of the conditions under which the national recovery act became effective. It had aroused the enthusiasm of the entire nation even to the extent of making public disapproval the most formidable instrument of enforcement. If it was a mistake it was not the mistake of one man or of one group. Its failure to do what it was expected to do likewise cannot be assigned to one man or group. A general disposition to forget the origin and first intention of the national recovery act is responsible for a vast deal of needless strife and bitterness in discussion of the national problem.

A New Senator

Mild excitement will be provided this week when Rush D Holt of West Virginia claims the right to be seated in the United States senate. Mr Holt elected last November has been waiting for his 30th birthday which falls on June 19.

There is opposition to the young senator [illegible] most of it on the Republican side. [illegible] it should not be forgotten he is a Democrat. He defeated Henry D Hatfield a Republican. There isn't much danger that Mr Holt's party will let him come to [illegible]

[illegible] was the judgment of the founding fathers that a [illegible] judgment couldn't be [illegible] he was at least 30 years old if he wanted to be a senator. If he wanted to be a [illegible] he was mature at [illegible] Mr Holt wanted to be a senator [illegible] patch.

The age range in the senate at present stretches from 3[illegible] to 7[illegible] [illegible] Russell of Georgia is [illegible] of Virginia is the [illegible] Two senators are 40, two are 41 (Holt [illegible] is one of them) one senator is 42 and one is 44. Eight others are [illegible] than 50 years old.

Seven senators are more than [illegible] for are 69 and [illegible] The average age of all of them is 58 years. If [illegible] means anything Democratic senators [illegible] and Republicans [illegible] more than 60 years. The inclusion of Sen Holt of course will bring the Democratic average down somewhat.

There are interesting possibilities in the fact he will enter the senate at the [illegible] age of 30. He will attract more than ordinary attention, for one thing. If he cares to continue a legislative career and if he can [illegible] years to [illegible] seniority will [illegible] in [illegible] early the [illegible] an 20 years [illegible] judgment as his [illegible] young [illegible] to [illegible] something or [illegible]

Time To Apply A Remedy

The Marion [illegible] get [illegible] none too [illegible] ago a [illegible] Chief Macran [illegible] was [illegible] to [illegible] [illegible] to [illegible] accidents [illegible] for [illegible] similar period of time.

Speeding is [illegible] the chief cause of trouble although [illegible] and double [illegible] ranks as one of the major offenses. This relates in particular to fast driving in places and under conditions where it is dangerous. Main thoroughfares where traffic is heavy and cross [illegible] is certainly are not suitable areas for speed. Yet it is not uncommon to see cars plowing through these crowded channels between 50 and 60 miles an hour and often at night when glaring headlights, poor headlights and sometimes no lights at all add to the hazards.

Usually when the facts are determined these cars are found to be occupied by persons who are on no important missions and usually have no definite destination unless it be the hospital or undertaker. That more of them don't reach that tragic [illegible] either for themselves or other people is due to a kind providence and utmost care on the part of other drivers as well as people on foot.

There are places where it is reasonably safe to speed although even under the most favorable circumstances it is a gamble. That of course is a well worn topic and futile as a subject of discussion. Few if any motorists are content to hold their cars down to moderation when on the open highway and with automobile construction at its present stage of near perfection such travel is actually safe. That is if the driver knows what to do in an emergency. If he doesn't certainly he has no right to be driving.

In the midst of city traffic however the situation is obviously different and that is the one which calls for vigilant and efficient observation and control by police authorities. This does not mean merely keeping an eye out for speeders. The slow driver can also be dangerous. He may be the one who backs out into traffic with no attention to approaching cars and he may also be the one who starts across an intersection at the wrong time then changes his mind and possibly stalls his car at the most hazardous spot. He may be the one who crosses a line of traffic the wrong way and possibly the one who drives with one headlight or neglects giving proper signals when making a turn.

Whether traveling fast or slow the dangerous fellows are the reckless drivers and the dumb drivers. Or possibly that is drawing a line of distinction which doesn't exist. At any rate they are the ones the police must hold in check if Marion's streets are to be made reasonably safe for people who have a desire to last through a normal span of life and to do so without the use of splints or crutches.

The police department news reports tell us are now equipped with two new automobiles and a motorcycle which are expected to be valuable in maintaining safe and orderly traffic conditions. If this expectation is fulfilled money spent for the new equipment will indeed be a profitable investment.

For Supreme Court Baiters

The labor advisory board of NRA is the latest to bait the supreme court for its unfavorable opinion on the constitutionality of the national recovery act. For it and other supreme court baiters the following course of reasoning is recommended.

First the government of the United States is composed of three separate and theoretically independent branches the executive, legislative and judicial. The supreme court is part of the judicial branch. Congress is the legislative branch. The President is the head of the executive branch.

Congress on the demand of the President enacted a certain piece of legislation known as the recovery act. In the course of time there came before the supreme court the question of whether or not the judicial branch of the government would enforce the joint product of the executive and legislative branches.

The court decided it would not and could not enforce the recovery act because it was contrary to the Constitution of the United States. This decision did not remove the recovery act from the statutes. It merely restrained federal courts from enforcing the provisions of the law. In other words the court did not dictate to congress. It did however refuse to let congress force it to recognize an unconstitutional law.

The court did not infringe on the power of either the executive or legislative branches. It prevented infringement on its own power thereby supporting the original division of power. Those who are trying to cut the ground from under the court's feet [illegible] do well to consider carefully the [illegible] The [illegible] has [illegible] and [illegible] it was [illegible]

Frank Buck will come back to America with one more wild cargo—but that will likely be his last. He has purchased controlling interest in the famous Raffles hotel in Singapore and expects to retire to the leisurely pace of Mine Host. He also has orders for many magazine articles he has never been able to supply. So he'll do some writing too.

Authors from small towns especially fiction writers are usually unpopular with home folk. The beloved such as Irvin Cobb for whom Paducah named its leading hotel are a minority. Often the natives imagine they see themselves in the book characters. Or maybe it is their friends or relatives. Edgar Lee Masters whose Spoon River Anthology made him famous years ago is freely distilled in his home district. Sauk Center Minn bristled a bit over the Main Street of their native son Sinclair Lewis. So did Maryville Mo at some of Homer Croy's lines.

Rudy Vallee too is a caviarist gulping hefty portions for his midnight repast. Al Jolson is such a lover of the dish that he often carries a large imported can of it on cross country trips. When Paul Whiteman breaks diet he always goes for caviar. Strangely enough exiled Russians show little taste for the most famous edible of their land. Incidentally a five and ten cent store version of caviar shad roe salted and dyed appears in many cafeterias.

Glancing Backward

TEN YEARS AGO

It was Thursday June 18 1925

United States Senator Robert M LaFollette of Wisconsin died at his home in Washington at the age of 70.

A lawn party was given at the Marion Country club under the direction of a committee consisting of Mrs Daniel Evans, Mr H W Hane, Mrs J F Prendergast, Mrs H J Barnhart, Mrs Wilfred C Schaffner and Mrs C D Schaffner.

Announcement of the engagement of Miss Helen Zuck and John Lacey was made at a luncheon given by Miss Zuck's sister Mrs D E Rea on Windsor street.

Mrs Harry Frosberger of South Prospect street entertained at a bridge luncheon in honor of Mrs Harry S Elliott of Martins Ferry.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

It was Friday June 18 1915

Desperate efforts of the French to smash the German line at Arras culminated in what was described as one of the most gigantic bombardments ever known in warfare. More than 300,000 shells were hurled against the German trenches. The terrific cannonade was followed by bayonet charges all along the line.

Reginald A J Warneford Canadian sub-lieutenant in the British royal navy who had achieved fame as an air fighter was killed in a plane crash near Buc France just 10 days before Warneford had battled a Zeppelin and sent the huge German craft plunging to destruction with a crew of 28 aboard, all of whom were killed.

Mrs Jay Vaughan was hostess to her embroidery club at her home on North State street.

The board of education employed Miss Helen Arms as teacher of domestic arts and science, R A Davis as supervisor of manual training and George C Kriege of Cincinnati as supervisor of music.

Behind The News In

Washington And Wall Street

BY PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON June 18—It is more or less an open secret that the justice department lawyers generally consider the Guffey Snyder coal bill to be unconstitutional. This may be denied now because the White House is pushing the bill energetically in congress.

But around the department the right-hand men of Attorney General Cummings are freely saying off the record that the bill is illegal on three points. Its price fixing features are definitely monopolistic. Its tax provision is coercive and not for the purpose of raising revenue and anyway the supreme court already has held that coal mining is not interstate commerce.

This situation has stirred up considerable speculation as to why President Roosevelt chose to get behind a bill which his lawyers consider to be of doubtful legality.

The story most widely accepted by those in the know is that the President has seized this issue as a vehicle to carry home his opposition to the supreme court decision on NRA.

Opportunity

It is a rather deep story but a plausible one and the only explanation for the enigmatic situation surrounding the bill.

The truth is the public reaction to the NRA decision was not what the administration desired. President Roosevelt's friends blame it on the fact that the country failed to understand the issue. Constitutional questions are always involved and not widely understood. The sick chicken case was not one which could be dramatized easily before the country.

Coal affords a broader opportunity. Nearly everyone thinks the bill is meritorious. A majority of coal operators as represented by production tonnage want it. The miners are threatening to strike unless it is passed. The only people strongly against it are the large coal consumers (railroads, utilities) who fear higher prices. Non-union operators also oppose it because it gives more power to the United Mine Workers.

The National Coal association representing the industry has taken no stand on it being neither for it nor against it. Virtually all the northern operators except the Mellon crowd are for it.

Coercion

Every one on the inside of the situation agrees that a swift court test of the bill is certain. The highest mine worker authorities say they take that for granted. So does the coal association. They all expect that it will be taken to the supreme court next winter in [illegible] of time for a decision before the 1936 presidential campaign opens.

That the court will throw out the bill also is taken for granted by a majority of authorities. In the Coronado case the court said (Page 25): "Coal mining is not interstate commerce and the power of congress does not extend to its regulation as such." It added that if congress deems certain [illegible] practices likely to obstruct, restrain or burden the interstate [illegible] it may subject them to national supervision and restraint.

But the Guffey-Snyder bill goes further. It taxes all operators and returns 99 per cent of the tax to those operators who join up under a code. The purpose of the tax is merely to force the operators in under a code.

Stabilization

The new dealers have been playing around covertly with the problem of international currency stabilization lately. It is known to have been the topic of recent White House conferences.

A very [illegible] paragraph on the [illegible] appeared in a memo [illegible] the commerce department. It was not [illegible] official [illegible] would [illegible] and was [illegible] follow.

It is generally agreed among world statesmen abroad and business men that action should be taken to bring the currencies of the leading countries into some definite form of equilibrium. Until the relationship of international currencies has been established upon a basis inspiring more confidence than the present improvised system of clearing transactions between nations it is reasonable to assume that the total volume of world trade will not expand appreciably in the coming months. Moreover if the gold bloc should be forced to give ground except in accordance with international agreement world trade would undoubtedly receive another serious set back.

By JAMES McMULLIN

NEW YORK June 18—Well posted New York observers rate Abyssinia the key to several major developments in international relations with which it has no outward connection at all. These include the Anglo-German naval agreement and Germany's new effort to reach an understanding with Italy on the basis of a guarantee of Austrian independence and support for Mussolini's African ambitions.

Here's the picture as they get it from first rate European contacts. Britain has threatened to close the Suez Canal to Italy if she gets too fresh. But no one has mentioned French Somaliland — the tiny colony which not only affords the only rail entry to Abyssinia but dominates the eastern end of the Red Sea as effectively as the canal does the western end. Figure what it would mean to Mussolini if he could get France to make common cause with him. It would be his one sure way of strangling Ethiopia into submission. Far more than that it would enable him to threaten to cut off the vital British trade route to India, Australia and East Africa. You can understand why the British are so stirred up by his maneuvers — though it isn't good diplomatic form to talk of such a possibility out loud.

Italy is flirting with Germany to scare France into a private agreement on Somaliland along these lines. Naturally Germany is delighted. Conversely Britain accepts a German navy thirty-five per cent as large as her own—and therefore almost as large as France's—to warn the French that they'd darn well better not cast their lot with Mussolini at England's expense. France is in a tough spot. She doesn't give a hoot about Abyssinia or the Red Sea but she gives plenty about Germany. And here the united front against Germany she has nursed along so carefully is threatened with a damaging split no matter what she does. By the same token Germany stands to gain whatever happens—thanks to Italian ambition and British apprehension. Keep your eyes on this African checker game. The fate of Europe may hang on it [illegible]

Premature

The J G White company [illegible] to build a dam at Lake Tsana in Abyssinia has its lines tangled. The project dates back to 27. Britain pushed it then and King Menelik—Ras Tafari's predecessor—agreed to a survey provided an American concern handled the job. He wanted no imperialistic Britishers or Frenchmen nosing around his kingdom. (That wasn't a factor then.)

The White firm filled the bill to Menelik's satisfaction. Perhaps he hadn't heard of its London connections. And certainly England was satisfied too. A credit of $150,000 was placed to the White account in a New York bank to expenses of an engineering [illegible] technical [illegible] Abyssinia [illegible] by Britain. The survey was completed at a cost of $145,000 and [illegible] to coming.

[illegible]

[illegible] Washington was sprung [illegible] surely Britain wasn't ready for it and was much annoyed when it leaked out. Even yet there's nothing resembling a definite contract—but White will get it when there is.

Guessing

Joe Kennedy of the securities commission has tackled a job that might well have broken Hercules. He aims to establish a uniform system of corporate accounting so that investors will be able to make sense out of corporate financial statements—which they can't do now unless gifted with second sight.

New York experts agree it would be helpful if this could be done. They concede that progress is possible in substituting understandable classifications for accounting jargon. They also figure it won't be so hard to simplify profit and loss statements. But they rate uniformity of balance sheets an achievement beyond the reach of a corps of Solomons.

Every company has its own system for figuring depreciation—and who's to say which one is correct? Ditto for valuation of assets. Should they be carried at original cost, replacement cost or income producing worth—and why? These questions can be argued eternally—and will be if Kennedy insists on trying to dope out a formula. It looks as if inquisitive investors will still have to do a lot of guessing despite his best efforts.

Management

When the bankers used to run the railroads they ran them and no fooling. Executives and directors for roads all over the country were chosen in New York. The mass of stockholders had about as much say as zoo animals have in the choice of a keeper.

But now that the bankers have largely lost interest in their former pets an odd situation has developed. Admittedly second rate managements still hold their jobs and there's no machinery for throwing them out.

This is one reason why a number of necessary reorganizations have been held up. Security holders are not organized and executives in charge won't take the initiative in a move which would probably dump them out in the cold. The RFC probably will have to step in and exercise its management prerogatives in some of these cases whether it wants to or not.

Cage

Don't think that Cuba is back to normal because Mendieta announces an end of martial law, restoration of the constitution and an election this coming winter. That's just a gesture to keep the rebel elements quiet during the period of greatest economic stagnation. Sugar grinding is over until December. That means more people out of jobs and revolution easier to incite unless its leaders have something to look forward to. Mendieta has cagily given them some thing to occupy their minds.

Sidelights

The Japanese government is up to date. It has a brain trust—the new Cabinet Inquiry commission. The British iron and steel business is doing better than at any time since the war.

CHARLES MICHEL LANGLADE

Probably no greater soldier ever led a force upon Ohio soil than Charles Michel Langlade who was born in 1729 and died in 1800. Langlade was born at Michilimackinac the son of a French officer and an Indian woman. When the French decided to oust the English trading post located in western America they placed Langlade in command of a force that was to attack the British post on the Great Miami known as Pickawillany.

Langlade set out from Detroit with his typical Indian army in canoes in the summer of 1752. The surprised the post [illegible] traders and sent the prisoners to Fort Duquesne as evidence that the expedition had been successful.

CHAPTER 43

New Threat

[illegible] Rede put his hand [illegible] and brought [illegible] across [illegible] "I'll not allow [illegible] [illegible] longer." [illegible] herself free [illegible] [illegible] what you say [illegible] [illegible] want to run [illegible] going to [illegible] make me [illegible] apologizing. I don't [illegible] come over her [illegible] ed in the bedroom d or drawing on her gloves.

"It's that man."

"[illegible]" he [illegible] started.

"Yes. She's seen him. He's [illegible]ing. She probably slept at his house [illegible] night," Daphne stated calmly.

"Alison!" He swung round on her accusingly. "Have you been to that man's house?"

"Yes, I've been there this morning," Alison admitted [illegible]. "I suppose it's no good my saying that she's lying about last night. You wouldn't believe me. But if you want to know, Guy and I are engaged."

Daphne's tone was sober, almost solemn as she said aloud, "I tell you, he's hypnotized her."

"So that's it." He turned on Alison, full of contempt and anger. "All right, my child. It just shows that you're not fit to be left here alone."

"I tell you, my dear, this is why I was afraid." Daphne's tone was meek. But she had moved to the outer door, was barring it with her body.

"Don't worry. Alison's coming with us." Robert's tone was grim.

Rede turned to Alison full of contempt

"I'm not." Alison moved back against the mantelpiece, held on it defensively. "You can tell any lies you like but whatever you say, I'm going to stay here till he comes."

Robert started forward, but Daphne checked him quickly.

"Are you?" she said. "Then you'll wait a long time, that's all."

"What do you mean?" gasped Alison.

Daphne laughed coolly.

"I mean that he's probably under arrest," she said. "You see, I went round to Scotland Yard early this morning and told them all about your Dr. Lumley and his visit to Warley."

"You told—Scotland Yard." Alison was whiter than the paint work behind her. "Then you were cheating me. You tried to make me promise and you knew all the time."

"I had to keep you quiet," retorted Daphne.

"You held me because I said I'd go for the police." Alison was dangerously quiet now. "You've lied to me and you've lied to father—well, you won't put this one over." She darted to the telephone, snatched it from its rest.

"What're you doing?" Daphne jumped forward, tried to wrest the receiver from her hand, but she held on tight.

"I'm going to ring up Scotland Yard."

"Alison!" Her father joined in now, was on the other side of her. "Put that down at once."

"I won't."

Here it was—New Scotland Yard, Whitehall 1202. As her fingers found the dial she heard Daphne whisper behind her, "Get her to the train, Bob. She'll be all right then. We can get married by the consul at Calais."

"Hullo? Is that Scotland Yard? Who did one ask for?" Alison wondered. "Hullo? Yes, I want to speak—"

Click. The receiver fell back across its stand as Daphne's hand closed like a vise upon her wrist. In spite of herself Alison screamed, for the pain was sharp and sudden.

"Leave go. You're hurting my wrist," the girl gasped. Her father's arm was round her waist now. He was holding her kindly but very firmly. Daphne's hand slid up to Alison's elbow, gripping it just above the joint as she shook her head.

"Let go of me." Alison tried to writhe free but Robert had her fast. He pushed her gently down into a chair as Daphne let go.

"No. Sit down," he ordered as she tried to leap up.

"Bob, shall I fetch the maid? Or give her something—sal volatile—?" Daphne ran to the door.

"No." Alison's head dropped on her knees. "Leave me alone."

With a tremendous effort she checked her sobs, raised her head and spoke with all the earnestness that she could summon, forcing him to listen.

"Father. Please do try and understand. She's accused him—Guy—of murder. Don't you see? If I go away now, don't say anything, [illegible] he did it. Surely even you must see that."

Robert looked up at Daphne.

"[illegible] might be best," he muttered. "Perhaps she'll get quieted down when we get round—"

"No. If you give way now, Bob, she'll go on playing up like this the whole time."

"Don't you see?" Alison wailed, [illegible] at her father's arm. "Oh, can't you see she wants him to be hanged? He knows too much."

"Wait, Bob. I'll fetch the maid. Leave her to us. We'll get her quiet. Honestly, you're only making her worse."

"All right," he yielded, shrugging his shoulders.

She was gone in an instant, running out to the car.

"Father!" Alison raised a swollen, tear-blotched face. "Won't you please just let me stay at home? I promise I'll do what you want—rest, do anything you like—if you'll just leave me behind."

Haggard, nervous and unhappy, he met her appeal with silence, looked towards the door.

"Oh, please," she begged.

He could not face her, turned away and stooped to pat the little dog. For a second Alison's eyes measured the distance to the telephone—but he was too near the table, had picked up the box of chocolate, and was untying the ribbon shakily.

"Father?" She started from her chair.

He looked at her miserably, the open chocolate box between his hands, the little dog sitting up and begging at his feet. "Father, won't you let me stay?"

And he answered hurriedly, shamefacedly, conscious of being unfair. "No—no, really, dear, you must be reasonable."

Outside Alison could hear Daphne and the nurse coming—they were at the door.

Tomorrow: Robert Rede has terrible proof of Alison's story.

Your Health

BY DR. R. S. COPELAND

Dangers of Cold

MANY PERSONS disregard the common cold, little realizing that it may be the forerunner of something really serious. The respiratory diseases, such as bronchitis, pneumonia and pleurisy, too often follow the neglected cold.

Empyema is a frequent complication of pneumonia and other inflammations caused by the common cold. This is the formation of pus in the chest or pleural cavity.

The pleura is the delicate membrane which lines the chest and surrounds the lungs. The germs of a cold may be carried to the pleura where they set up severe irritation and inflammation. If the germs are pus forming, empyema soon occurs.

The disease is attended by sudden rise in temperature which is usually preceded by a chill. This is followed by severe sweating.

The fever drops within 24 hours but soon rises to its peak. This up and down temperature continues for several days. Such peculiar fluctuations in the degree of fever is spoken of as the septic curve. If it is associated with the history I have described, it should always arouse suspicion of empyema.

Unfortunately, the condition is often regarded as merely the aggravated symptoms of a severe cold or ordinary infection. That it is serious is recognized when the sufferer complains of pain in the chest and has marked difficulty in breathing. The truth is established when the pain becomes so severe as to interfere with sleep and rest. At this stage an x-ray picture will prove the presence of pus in the lung.

In many cases the true state of affairs can be determined by tapping the suspected area, the doctor using a needle specially devised for withdrawing pus. Even now the failure to obtain pus does not rule out the possibility of empyema because the needle may not have entered the infected area.

But every measure must be taken definitely to locate the pus. Recovery and complete cure are only possible by its removal. To accomplish this an operation may be required.

Fortunately, such severe measures are rarely needed, but if the doctor advises it, do not resist the operation. In the hands of a competent surgeon it is not a dangerous procedure. Bear in mind that in a severe case of empyema this is the only method of cure. Delay leads to the formation of deep-seated pockets of pus.

Prompt attention to a simple cold will prevent this and other dreaded complications. Carelessness and neglect are dangerous. To protect the patient's health as well as to guard the family against infection, there should be immediate care and medication when there appears the slightest indication of a cold.

Married Comrades

BY ADELE GARRISON

Madge Seeks Plan to Keep Mary at the Lake.

IT MORE than satisfies me," I said in answer to Dicky's query concerning my reaction to his promise to deal adequately with the man whom we suspected to be Jack Leslie should he try to harm Noel during Mary's absence in the mountains. But I did not tell him that at least half of my relief was due to the matter-of-fact manner in which he had taken my mention of Hugh Grantland's name.

Our compact of married comradeship was not to be shaken as I had feared by my inadvertent mention of the man, staunch friend and savior of both Junior and Mary from terrible fates, but also the source of much misery to us both because of Dicky's former jealousy of him.

I put up a silent paean of thankfulness for this before voicing a question which required answer before I started on our journey to New Hampshire.

Expects to Return.

"You know Mary expects to come back with me," I said, and stopped short.

"I don't envy you the job of keeping her up there," my husband answered with a provoking grin.

"What am I going to tell her?" I felt that my voice must have a wailing note in it. "I don't dare to tell her the truth."

"Not unless you expect her to board the nearest airplane and fly back to her beleaguered spouse—at least, her imagination will consider him beleaguered," he supplemented.

"You're such a help," I told him, exasperated.

"Give me time," he jeered back. "My massive brain has not been idle during this chatter. It has been revolving and ponderling, and if you will listen carefully and not interrupt me, I will now proceed to give you the benefit of my profoundest judgment."

Dicky Has Idea.

I wrinkled my nose at him, but he kept his face solemn and his tones ponderous as he went on.

"It is the judgment of the court," he said after clearing his throat ostentatiously, "that the party of the first part should say no word of danger to the party of the second part. Instead, the party of the first part should stress possible danger to the three children and also emphasize the inestimable service which the party of the second part can render in helping to guard the children and care for them. Have I made my meaning clear?" He stared coldly at me.

"Perfectly," I said when I could speak, for Dicky's mimicry is always mirth-provoking. "I still don't [illegible] [illegible]. Between us we probably can concoct some plan to persuade Mary that it is her duty to stay up there and help with the children."

"You probably [illegible] [illegible]," he said [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] two [illegible] with [illegible] [illegible] championship [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] sensational [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] blessing. But [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] of a good [illegible]."

"I am [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] with a desire [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] him."

"The [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] thing [illegible] [illegible] Mary [illegible] her staying up there [illegible] get her safe [illegible] to car."

"I think I shall wait longer than that," I said, smiling. "Mary is young and volatile, and she hasn't had a chance to cut loose and be a child for a long time. After two days of the woods—fishing, rowing, swimming and tramping—it will be much easier to persuade her to stay up there."

Sent Telegram.

A[illegible] I pondered for a second. "I think I'd like you to send me a telegram upon the second day after we arrive—one in a code that Mary can translate from my code book—saying that the children must be watched constantly but that my presence at the farmhouse is imperative. Suggest that Mary stay.

"In the meantime, you can get in touch with Noel, tell him about Jack Leslie and have him send a telegram to Mary saying that his father is sending him out of town for a couple of weeks and approving of the plan that she stay up there."

"Didn't I tell you that you were a conniver par excellence?" my husband demanded. "That's a mighty good scheme. But I'm going to amend it by having Noel give me the telegram to send to Mary. I don't want that lad out on the street any more than he has to be during the next few days."

"Oh!" I exclaimed, staring at him. "Then you do think that Noel is in definite danger?"

See What These Marion Housewives Say About Gas Refrigeration

Our Electrolux is one of the most valued possessions in our home and I did not realize what great savings in both labor and money were possible until I had used the gas refrigerator. It is silent in operation and I can have a week's supply of food and plenty of ice cubes at my finger tips whenever I might need them. My Electrolux makes possible cleaner refrigeration with much less effort on my part.

MRS. S. SNODGRASS
518 S. Prospect St.

I have used my Electrolux for over two years. The first year a meter was placed on my Electrolux alone and my actual bill was $7.63 for the twelve months—or an average of 63c per month. I feel this is certainly an economical means of having safe food preservation during the hottest of weather.

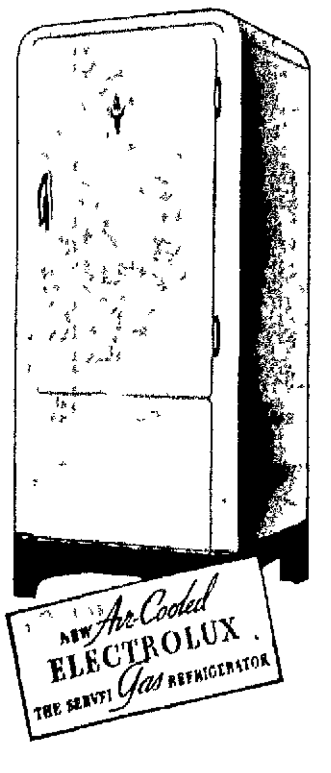
MRS. R. J. CERHA
683 Mt. Vernon Avenue

The undersigned purchased an Electrolux from the Gas Company a year ago and have been operating it since the time of purchase. I am very pleased with its low operating cost and it has no motor, no belts, no compressor or oil to be replaced.

MRS. B. A. BASTIAN
607 Mary Street

A few features of my Electrolux which please me most are: (1) I find it very economical to operate. (2) It operates with absolutely no noise. (3) We always have an abundance of ice cubes. (4) It has been entirely free from any kind of service work.

MRS. C. R. FRITZ
617 Girard Avenue



You, too, are entitled to the economy, convenience, and efficiency of the Electrolux gas refrigerator. Buy one now and pay for it on easy terms out of the savings it will affect. Inspect the beautiful 1935 models at once at —

TOM MOONEY WINS HABEAS CORPUS WRIT

Court Action Declared Shifting Burden of Proof Upon State's Shoulders

By The Associated Press

SAN FRANCISCO Calif June 18—Tom Mooney's long battle for freedom entered a different legal channel today after his cry of perjury had been accorded judicial recognition for the first time

The California state supreme court yesterday granted a writ of habeas corpus which had been sought by Mooney in a petition charging his conviction of the 1916 San Francisco preparedness day bombing was accomplished through perjured testimony

Issuance of the writ was hailed by George T Davis of his counsel as a notable victory

Davis declared the burden of proof was shifted by the supreme court's action from Mooney's shoulders to those of State's Attorney General U S Webb who is expected to resist this latest move in the former iron moulder's long fight for freedom

The writ made returnable June 27 directed Warden James J Holohan of San Quentin prison where Mooney is serving a life term to show cause why the gray haired convict should not be released

Webb as legal representative of Warden Holohan was reported at his office to have no comment to make at this time He argued in a previous habeas corpus proceeding before the United States supreme court that relief could come only through executive clemency or pardon the 51 ships called for in the contracts only 28 have been built.

SHIP SUBSIDY POLICY FACES NEW ATTACK

Declare Spirit Violated

The report was packed with instances in which it was alleged companies violated the spirit of the contracts to pipe profits into their own tills instead of devoting the money to building up the merchant marine

The report said J P Grace president of the W R Grace & Co operator of several Grace lines together with banking and other business interests received in 1928 salary commission and dividends of $9 1 660

As another instance the committee declared that R Stanley Dollar received from his Dollar Steamship line and Admiral Oriental line $686 50 as commission incident to the purchase of ships from the United States government at low prices

Cite $4 640 204 Profit

The report said the Admiral Oriental line with a $[illegible]00 capitalization operated government owned ships at a net profit of $4 640 204 in three years and five months

As another item the report cited The Roosevelt Steamship Co which took its name from Kermit Roosevelt in 1920 with a then outstanding capital of $22 00[illegible] made profits under a lump sum agreement from 1931 to 1933 inclusive amounting to $371 9[illegible]

Competitive bidding for [illegible] mail contracts was evaded the report charged and it quoted George W Harding Glover former second assistant postmaster general in the Hoover administration as saying in connection with the negotiation of one contract that I think [illegible] worked out [illegible] [illegible] of the Colombian Steamship Co

OFFICER KILLS MAN

By The Associated Press

HAMILTON O June 18 — Patrolman Joseph McFall shot and killed a man registered as Ralph Gray 25 Hamilton early today after he reported the man refused to surrender in the seed company office where he was found.

Two motor ships the largest and swiftest in the refrigerated trade, are being built in England to transport chilled beef from Australia and New Zealand.

18 HOME PROJECTS MAY BE ABANDONED

Government Unable To Get Industries To Locate in New Settlements

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON June 18—The government is thinking of abandoning [illegible] subsistence homesteads [illegible] as the result of a [illegible] upon the death of the Homestead Corporation

C B Baldwin chief assistant to Rexford G Tugwell head of the resettlement administration in an interview today said

We are checking and rechecking all the subsistence homestead projects Some that are going concerns we will probably continue others not yet [illegible] under way may be dropped

There are 64 such projects 15 of which are not yet functioning

This development occurred as Tugwell [illegible] back from New Mexico where he delivered a graduation address at the state university issued orders that work of establishing the resettlement administration hit a faster pace

We hope to be all set by July 15 Baldwin said

The idea of the subsistence homesteads projects some of which may be dropped was to link the soil to industry The plans called for communities populated by people who would be employed in industry but also would have plots of ground to till

They have faced some criticism and difficulties and it has been reported that officials were finding it difficult to induce industries to locate in the communities

LANDIS SAYS PITTS ELIGIBLE TO PLAY

which there cannot be much doubt as to the destructive effect upon Pitts effort toward rehabilitation of not permitting him to enter baseball employment This was not contemplated nor is it due to the ruling of the president and the executive committee of the National Association

And in this situation reputable people have expressed to me their belief that there has been a complete reformation of Pitts character

Only In Regular Games

Solely for these reasons Pitts will be allowed to play on condition that a new contract be executed by the Albany club and Pitts containing a covenant that during the year 1935 Pitts shall appear only in regular league games and shall not appear in or at exhibition games this condition being imposed because it is distinctly in Pitts interest that mere notoriety be not exploited and capitalized

The young southerner who served five years of an 8 to 16-year term for an armed robbery in New York City was quick to express his appreciation

Judge Landis will never regret having made that decision he said

I won't ever do anything to make him regret it

Praises His Helpers

He praised the two men who led the fight to win him a baseball position General Manager Johnny Evers of the Albany club and Warden Lewis E Lawes of Sing Sing prison

They have been great They stuck with me from the start of this thing and I'm glad to have a chance to show them they were right

Evers who twice threatened to sever all connections with the game if the minor league ruling was upheld declared the decision gives me the greatest thrill in my 35 years of baseball

The decision speaks for itself—it shows intelligence said Warden Lawes Nothing can add to it Naturally I am pleased

Charles H Knapp of Baltimore president of the International League said he was glad Pitts is to have his chance and I hope he'll make good

Warren C Giles of Rochester chairman of the association's executive committee and President Bramham declined to comment.

Officials of the Albany club plan to start Pitts in the outfield next Sunday when the Senators oppose Syracuse

Pitts said he is certain he can make the grade

OUTSIDERS BARRED FROM QUAKE CITY

By The Associated Press

QUETTA India June 18 — A double fence of barbed wire patroled by military and civic police sealed today the ruins of this City of Death where 2[illegible] 000 persons died in earthquakes

While Indian music rose weirdly from loudspeakers all persons from the outside world were forbidden entrance until time ended the danger of an epidemic spreading from exposed corpses Many bodies still lay buried in the debris Salvage operations which were begun June 4 by soldiers wearing gas masks were suspended owing to the peril of infection from bodies heaped beneath a merciless sun

Tax Commission Hard Hit

The state tax commission received the severest cuts apparently of all the administrative state departments Its appropriation was slashed $75 700 in general administrative items while the various tax collection divisions felt the pruning knife severely The admissions tax division was cut $150 408 malt tax division $40 15[illegible] intangible tax division $ [illegible] 300 gasoline tax division $44 500 cigarette tax division $15 000 liquor control tax division $17 100 and the research division $15 315

Ohio's recovery administration which was virtually denuded of all authority by recent decisions of the Ohio and United States supreme courts was cut $4 940 a sum set apart for enforcement of various codes which the courts decisions held to be unconstitutional

The public works department was slashed $7 100 while the bureau of motor vehicles received a $206 00[illegible] cut of which $65 000 was for wages The rest was for equipment

The fish and game division was cut $4 [illegible]65 the bureau of lakes and parks $165 000 department of health $55 500 industrial relations $ 3 400 and the industrial commission $19 750

The state will have to continue to owe the $750 000 it borrowed to rehabilitate the new state office building after it was wrecked by a gas explosion as the governor deleted that item from the bill

Secretary of State George S Myers who had suggested a 10 per cent cut for all state departments was cut $200 for office equipment in his department State Auditor Joseph T Tracy was slashed $31 000 in appropriations for a list of special funds Of this amount $15 000 was for auditing relief administration accounts and $16 000 for sales tax auditing

Day Cut $1 000

State Treasurer Harry F Day was cut $1 000 for equipment while Attorney General John W Bricker was cut $1 000 for equipment and $9 000 for each of the two years for furnishing special legal services to the liquor department The liquor control department itself received a $5 000 cut and the finance department an equal sum both representing wages

Demands for 20 Per Cent Wage Increase Up for Arbitration

By The Associated Press

TOLEDO O June 18—[illegible] electrical workers of the Toledo Edison [illegible] ended their [illegible] strike [illegible] today and returned to work [illegible] of their demands for a 20 per cent wage increase [illegible]

Edward F McGrady assistant secretary of labor [illegible] whether the workmen [illegible] an immediate 5 per cent increase An arbitration board of three members will [illegible] the demand for an additional 15 per cent increase if McGrady's decision is affirmative

Members of the office workers union voted last night to return to work today after a [illegible] session

The strike had been in progress for four days but the company has been able to maintain normal service A few areas in the city were without power at times because of the shutting [illegible] of light transmission lines [illegible] company officials said

The Wilson [illegible] company in Canton reopened today as union workers picketed the entrances The strike was called when the company refused to reinstate a discharged employe

A second strike of [illegible] workers was threatened at the General Tire and Rubber Co in Akron Rex Murray president of the General local of the United Rubber Workers Union said the company laid off workers in violation of a promise made in a strike settlement last year
